

November 3, 2022, Dover, DE; A group of British Car Club of Delaware members, Cathy and Dave & Cathy Maul, Dave & Bev Glick, and Terry & Georgia Young attended the First State Heritage Park's 18th Century Market Fair held on Legislative Green in historic downtown Dover, DE this Sunday, November 6th. First off, we had great lunch at The Grey Fox Grille and Public House then got our steps in by walking over to the green. From their website

"Market Fair brings the colonial past to life in this annual, two-day event! We walked the ground where 18th century Doverites went to market, browsing among historic trade demonstrators, local and regional vendors selling their food and wares, and talented performers sweeping you back through the centuries. This event was free to attend."

As we walked the Green enjoying a perfect, unseasonably warm, fall day. We met a couple of friends of Terry's. Rick and Tish Shuman who were demonstrating their 17th Century wood working skills with period tools, making, and selling their various hand-made wooden kitchen wares. Also, we met many reenactors who were more than happy to talk about their skilled demonstrations.

The most difficult decision of the day was. "Shall we take the back roads or the main roads home?" That question was easy for Terry and Georgia. They live three miles away. For the "Daves" Bev & Cathy – Back roads all the way home - top down, course!! Although a short notice outing, we missed all who were unable to attend.
